

GUIDE to OHMAGE WEBSITE

When you first login at pilots.ohmage.org, you will see various tabs:

Dashboard

- This tab allows you to see at a glance how many survey responses you have and how many campaigns you are currently participating in.

Campaigns

- This tab shows you all of the campaigns you are involved with.
- If you click on a particular campaign, you can see more detailed information about it. You also have the option to “Export Responses” under “Actions”.

Responses

- Here is where you will be able to view your responses, and you can filter the displayed responses by Campaign, Survey, Participant, Privacy setting, and a date range (if, for example, you only wanted to view responses submitted within the last week, etc.) – simply use the drop-down menus in the gray bar on the left.
- You have the option to view 10, 50, or 100 responses per page, by selecting your preference in the upper right corner.

Explore Data

- This tab provides options for graphical visualizations of the collected data. For example, you can draw a “Mobility Map” to see where and when and how you were active or inactive on any given day.

Classes

- What is a Class? A Class is a grouping of Users. All of the participants involved in your study will be grouped into one class.
- You will be able to see the usernames of all of the participants in your class; however, you will not be able to view their survey responses or mobility data.

Documents

- Here you can upload any pertinent or related documentation to store in conjunction with your campaign.
- Documents that have been “shared” are visible to all participants in the campaign (i.e. researchers, coordinators, and other participants).

The tab you will use most often is Responses, as this is where you can explore all of your survey responses and see if your data is in fact being uploaded successfully to the server.
